Stephen Page is an experienced organist living in St Leonards-on-Sea. He plays regularly at St John the Evangelist, Hollington and Hastings Unitarian churches as well as at many churches in Hastings, Bexhill and the surrounding towns and villages. These include Northiam, Winchelsea and the parishes here. He has recently played for a number of weddings and funerals at Beckley and Peasmarsh.

Stephen has a wide repertoire and always seeks to entertain through a varied programme covering different styles and periods. There will be a mix of the familiar and less familiar, ending with some lighter music. Although sometimes playing larger organs, he particularly enjoys bringing the best out of the smaller instruments to be found in churches and chapels. He likes to be able to highlight an organ that perhaps is no longer played so often or is not usually heard in concert.

Please do come along whether you love organ music in particular or just enjoy a good tune and good company in a beautiful setting.
